Gather every W-2 from employers and each 1099 form for interest, dividends and freelance income. Collect receipts for charitable gifts, medical expenses and mortgage interest to decide whether itemizing beats the standard deduction. Note estimated quarterly payments already made. File the federal return by the April 15 deadline or request an extension, and keep copies of all documents for at least seven years.